Feb 2nd 2009, I proposed to marry Oby(not her real name), a lady I met four years ago in our Fellowship. It was a silent evening; we had just closed from Mid-week communion service when I approached her. I looked at her face and said, Oby, I have something important to discuss with you, can we find a quiet place please. Without hesitation, she followed me and we went inside an uncompleted building. There, I proposed to her straightaway, assuming that marriage relationship was the best decision at the moment, as I needed neither any rival to snatch away from me nor a marriage counselor for any marriage or relationship advice. Few days after the proposal, things began to fall apart for me-my circumstance became worse and my visage was marred by spiritual disturbances. Night by night, I kept hearing a threatening voice, resonating in my ear piece, and sharing with me over a thousand reasons to consider my decision unimportant. It was obvious-I needed relationship help-especially an ability to differentiate God s choice from good choice. Hardly did I know that my inclination to marry Oby was not part of God s agenda for my life, though I insisted. Taking a look at my personal perspective, I could see a lady: Chaste, charismatic, hospitable, dedicated, faithful, beautiful, charitable, and having all the precious qualities I admire a lot in ladies. Then, what was the missing link? Was Oby not a rightful companion for me? The answers to these questions led me into a long lasting research about Who is my spouse? in many marriage and family books, to get outstanding marriage help, differentiate between love marriage...
