S6 2010f OCLC Number: (OCoLC)653103699 Subject: Internet -- Economic aspects -- United States. Excerpt: . . . 9 broadband were tools that we used to drive down the cost of pro-viding our service, and soon other companies used these same tools. Today we are focusing on efficiency, growing quickly and opti-mizing our processes, but ultimately it is the consumers of our service, local law enforcement agencies, that are the clear winners in this textbook competitive market, where private companies are working to create the most value at the lowest price. By any measure, widespread access to broadband is an accel-erator to efficiency. Those economies that achieve the highest level of broadband penetration will be the first to create the new effi-cient services that will take advantage of these high capacity net-works and will have an advantage in the long run. Observation number three, widespread access to broadband is a proxy for other types of investments in the economy. Part of the mandate of government is to foster conditions that will contribute to a strong and vibrant economy. During the economic downturn, much...
