INTRODUCING OURSELVES TO A BEAR, SALMON FISHING, DEER STALKING, AND LEAVE-TAKING. The Betty Martin, off Loppen, Sept., 1843. Dear S, --I hope you got my last, all safe; if you did not, I cannot help it, --so, no more about it. I believe we were somewhere on the banks of the Alten, enjoying ourselves. We were determined not to waste much time; and, as we were all reindeer mad now, except H, who had got enough of it, we took to the hills, the next morning, L e, K n, B e, and your humble servant, with foxy as guide. We started early (three o clock) in the morning. I must say, a day s idleness and feasting do not improve the wind; and, before we got up out of the valley, there were symptoms of bellows to mend. I was in front, picking my way through some broken ground, when suddenly I beheld some uncouth object, apparently rolling down a slope, about one hundred yards ahead of me. The sun was right in our eyes, so that I could not see very well. I gazed an instant.-- A bear, by! Unslung my rifle, and let fly, almost at the same moment. The bear was in the act of jumping over a small cliff, about ten feet high. My companions gave him a volley, as he disappeared. I seized my double-gun, which the fox had ready, rushed to the edge of...
